

STUDIO ART | SPRING 2022

DNA Expressions: What you think most today you will be tomorrow

By Krista Dominguez-Salazar

Your thoughts will influence your mind, heart, body soul
Mindsets you adopt will influence your mind, heart, body, soul
Growth mindset
Perceptions
Thoughts
Attitude
Peace
Kindness
Love
Joy
Faith
Hope
Generosity
Positivity
Patience
Endurance
Resilience
Peace loving Possibilities
Generosity
Opportunity
Abundance
Personal purpose
Individual thought
Unity
Cooperation
Community
Balance
Consider others
Thriving
Optimism bias
Goodness
Forgiveness
Strong and gentle
Abundance

Krista Dominguez-Salazar is an Associate Professor at the University of New Mexico College of Pharmacy. She has co-pioneered many learner-centered academic programs promoting critical thinking through active learning strategies within the doctor of pharmacy program and the interprofessional program. Her background includes extensive training in motivational interviewing, relationship-centered communication framework, de-escalation training and developing active learning curricula in both academic and the practice settings. As a pharmacist serving a vulnerable population, Dr. Dominguez-Salazar has developed an appreciation for the vital role empathy has in patient care, its translation to behavior change and the desired outcomes as determined by patient. As faculty, she has extensive skills development to build strategies to intentionally imbed learning activities for facilitating student-pharmacist learning that transfers into their clinical practice, individually and in teams.
