Each quadrant houses its own diversity, and these seem to converge in the middle beautifully. This piece honors women's myriad of roles in medicine and their common thread. The constant throughout my life is art, especially when I find meaning in it.

Medha Cherabuddi was born and brought up in San Jose, California, and moved to Hyderabad, India, with her family at 9. After growing up with the best of both worlds, she completed medical school in India and moved to Detroit, Michigan, during the peak of the pandemic to begin her Internal Medicine residency at Henry Ford Hospital.
